Honkey Bitch
Curse of the Gypsy

The songs on this album were recorded in the course of a year. . . Early on, we enlisted the aid of an old friend and acquaintance. We met Mike Cole some years ago. Mike spent much of his callous youth in Philadelphia playing ripping, shredding lead guitar in his band YDI. . . I had got him to play on a few of my songs which I had turned into an, as yet, unreleased album, and wanted to get him a copy. I ended up looking him up in the great wild-west landscape of the internet. . . Mike enthusiastically consented to play lead guitar on four of the songs of this album: FireAxe, MadHouse (jiggy with it), Smell of Desperation, and Tight Thighs.

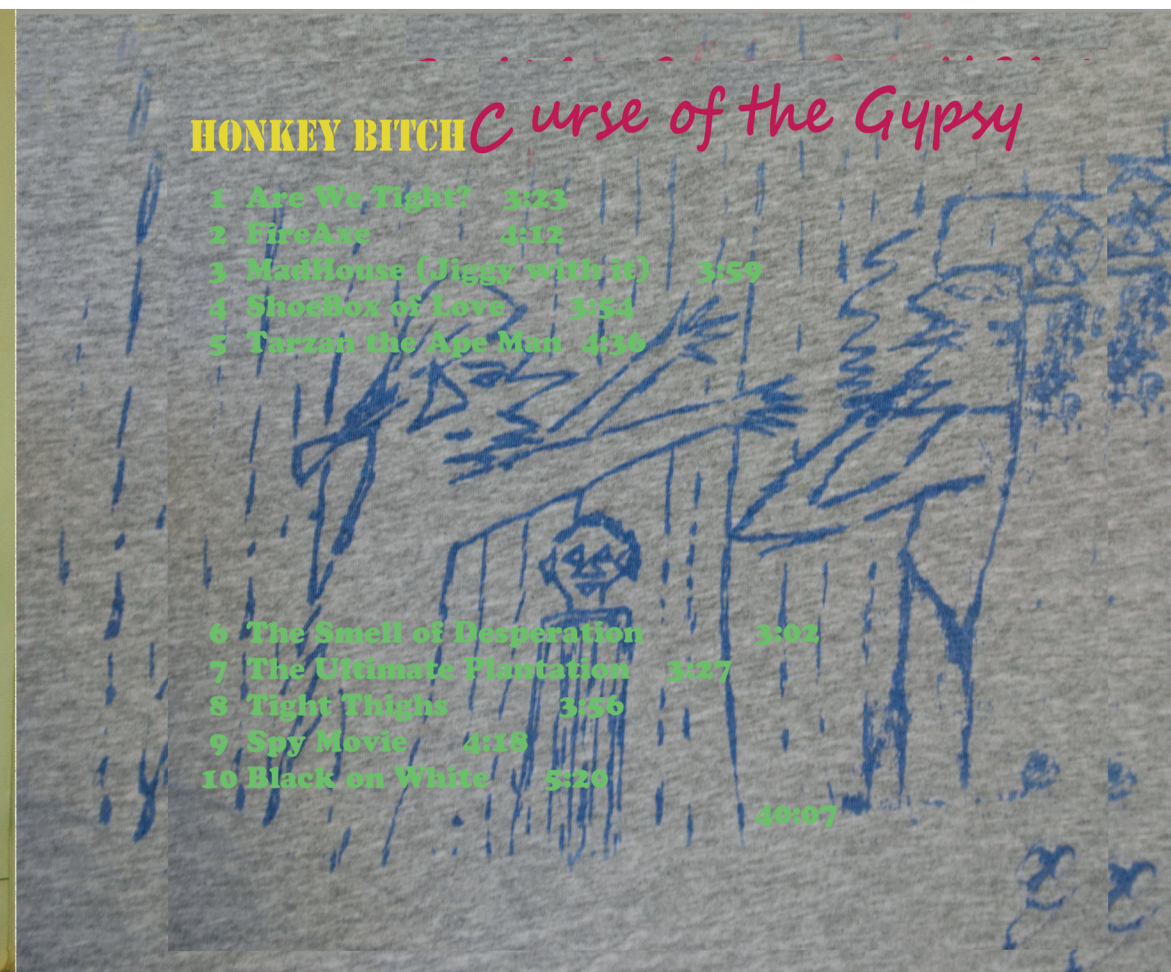

My dear friend Eric Hightower plays rhythm guitar on all of the songs on this album, and all guitar leads on all the other songs (except the 4 that Mike plays lead.) I play all Bass guitars, sing all the vocals (Eric sings backup on Are We Tight, Shoebox of Love,) I program all the drums (except FireAxe, which Eric programmed,) and I play the acoustic bongos on several songs.
